ALILA PURNAMA

An aerial photograph of a tropical bay. In the foreground, a traditional Indonesian phinisi sailing boat with two large brown sails is on the water. A small white motorboat is also visible. The bay is surrounded by lush green hills and a white sandy beach. The water is clear, showing a shallow reef flat with coral. The sky is blue with scattered white clouds.

Conde Nast Traveller UK 2013

“This new, 10-berth boat arrives in the wake of famous phinisi sailing boats, Alila Purnama is the latest initiative from Alila, a young, design-focused hotel group currently cutting a swathe through South-East Asia. .. And it’s impressive.”

Breathtaking vistas across the straits of Java and lots of handy modcons in the private villas make this an ideal base from which to explore the unspoilt west of Bali. Surrounded by tranquil paddy fields, the beautiful Kerambitan Palace is just a short bike ride away. The hotel library has loads of fascinating books about Bali.

HIGHLIFE, UK - AUGUST 2011

Sliding gracefully between sinuous rice terraces and a shimmering, volcanic-sand beach, the resort combines cool, grey stone from nearby river quarries and polished teak in a harmonious design that gently, almost humbly, invites the human visitor into the landscape.

CONDENAST TRAVELLER, UK - MAY 2011

Far from the Euro ghetto beat of the resort town of Kuta, Alila Villas Soori is peacefully laid out between sinuous rice terraces and a spectacular volcanic-sand beach, and features private pools, top-of-the line digital entertainment, and seriously superior bathing amenities. Dramatic common space interiors feature banyan tree driftwood as big as a king-size bed and relic-inspired terracotta tiles in the spa. Dining is not to be missed as Chef's offers by far the most comforting yet truly innovative cuisine of all of Bali

Perched on a cliff facing the vast Indian Ocean, Alila Villas Uluwatu is blessed with the best views in Bali. But it's not just the panorama that overwhelms you, it's the high of experience that really sets it apart from the rest.

STYLE, SINGAPORE - DECEMBER 2011

If any further proof were needed that Bali is back on track as a destination with cool hotels, then Alila Villas Uluwatu is it. The hotel's spectacular infinity-edged pool runs along a vertiginous limestone cliff, which drops hundreds of metres to a rugged beach along a pristine stretch of Indian Ocean.

GUEST TESTIMONIALS

What a rare and wonderful pleasure it is to visit somewhere that exceeds all expectations, particularly when those expectations are already high. This hotel is quite simply one of the best in the world. In truth my wife and I (who are experienced global travellers) could not fault one single aspect. It is simply breathtaking in terms of location, quality of villas, and impeccable service.

The reflective swimming pool at this secluded hillside retreat - a fusion of modern and traditional design that blends thatched roofs with clean, concrete lines - seems to float above the deep Ayung River valley below.

FORBES, USA - JANUARY 2011

Alila's three Balinese properties have pioneered green tourism standards since their inception. Sustainable tourism is a hallmark of their collection of luxury regional retreats. Alila Ubud is a deluxe retreat in Bali's cultural hinterland where energy consumption has been reduced and wastewater virtually eliminated by being purified through rice fields.

THE SUNDAY TELEGRAPH, AUSTRALIA - JANUARY 2010

I spent a holiday in Alila Ubud some time back and I remember it with pleasure... Excellent location, setting, peaceful and relaxing environment, comfortable rooms and one of the best swimming pools ever seen. Warm welcome, good local and international food, care of details, courtesy and excellent service. Great, Alila Ubud!

Unspoiled Bali

One particular resort which serves as a best representation of eastern Bali is the Alila Manggis. Situated in the Karangasem regency, the journey here will take about two hours from the airport. The establishment has a perfect balance between in-house relaxation activities as well as discovery activities that take guests on a journey quite different from the norm. Alila Manggis is all about promoting the best in nature, culture and relaxation. Here you can enjoy the amenities of a fine resort and still venture out to experience Bali life.

HIGH END, INDONESIA - JULY 2011

HIGH END, INDONESIA - JULY 2011

Beyond the fleshpots at Kuta, beyond the airport, even beyond Bali's sacred mountain to the east is a realm of weaving villages and water palaces, rice paddies and coconut groves. Alila Manggis is escapism incarnate, its thatched pavilions edging a shady pool. People go for peace, not partying and the cookery school is a big draw along with fishing trips and market jaunts. There's a spa, of course and the staff scurry at your whim.

GUEST TESTIMONIALS

This place is truly somewhere to find peace, calm and a feeling of being part of a family. The staff at Alila Manggis are exceptional! They greet you by name and make you feel right at home without being pretentious. The attention to detail is incredible. This is a physical representation of a zen moment. All your senses are catered to in the most relaxing way possible.

The massages were expertly done, using the spa's own products, made from homegrown herbs and fruits. My yoga instructor was excellent and the one-to-one sessions out on the lawn taught me a lot.

Loved the place. The staff are all friendly. If you take the time to talk to them they have a lot of knowledge about what is good to see and do. Food in the restaurant was amazing. The pool is beautiful, beach is very clean and almost free from hawkers. Spa is amazing too. Loved the room, very comfy bed, and superb shower! Only just back and already want to go again.

ONLY IF THE COAST IS CLEAR...

A new profusion of luxury liveaboards is ratcheting up the potential for seashore escapism. Maria Schlenkerer sizes up the boats that trade in ultimate exclusivity – and access to the remotest corners of the earth.

From the sea to the shore, liveaboards have been making a comeback. In the past, they were seen as a niche market, but now they are becoming a more mainstream phenomenon. This is due to a combination of factors: the increasing popularity of eco-tourism, the desire for unique and exclusive experiences, and the growing interest in sustainable travel. Liveaboards offer a unique way to explore the world's most beautiful coastlines, and they are becoming a more popular choice for travelers looking for a truly unforgettable experience.
